ACT

To amend the Black Administration Act, 1927, Amendment Act, 1929, so as to make courts established in terms of section 10 of that Act accessible to all; to extend the operation of that Act to the entire nationat territory of the Republic; and to substitute the short title of that Act; and to provide for matters connected therewith.

PREAMBLE

The divorce courts established in terms of section 10 of the Black Administration Act, 1927, Amendment Act, 1929, are competent to hear and adjudicate upon lawsuits relating to divorce and the nullity of marriages which involve persons belonging to one particular population group.

The Bill of Rights contained in Chapter 2 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, enshrines the rights of all persons in the country, and confirms the democratic values of human dignity, equality and freedom. The law as so enshrined binds the legislature, the executive authority, the judiciary and all organs of State.

The recognition of the said rights and the application of the said democratic values require that all people in the country should be dealt with on an equal basis in relation to the status, standard and accessibility of judicial institutions which have been established in the country.
